RELIEF PROBE IS CENTER OF INTEREST AT HARRISBURG

Cost of Administration Steals Spotlight in Fiscal Deadlock

SENATE DETERMINED

Resolution Shipped Through The Democratic House
Yesterday

By G. Everett Doying
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Apr. 5.—(INS)—The cost of relief and its administration stole the spotlight in the tangled fiscal deadlock in the Legislature today.

The Republican Senate determined to pass quickly next week the Horst resolution creating a joint legislative committee to investigate unemployment relief on a state-wide basis. The resolution slipped through the Democratic House yesterday.

The resolution asks particularly for a probe into the amount of "chiseling" in relief, the necessity of its present $1,250,000-a-month administrative payroll and a determination on whether the $135,000,000 appropriation for relief requested by Gov. George H. Earle is all needed.

House approval of the resolution, sponsored by Rep. Miles Horst, Lebanon Republican, brought into the open the Republican contention that the real nucleus of the legislative jam over taxation was primarily a question of how much new revenue is needed to balance the state budget for the next two years. A Senate spokesman asserted:

"One of the major points at issue is not how to get the money, but first to get agreement on how much it is necessary to raise."

Several Republican Senators, acting individually now, have been making an intensive study of the 1935-1937 State budget for several weeks. It was learned. Their research work is expected to be finished shortly and an exchange of findings will follow. Just how the group result will be placed before the public has not been determined but it is likely to come from the Senate floor.

This group finding, it was expected, will be detailed, carrying complete figures for a biennial budget and recommendations for new taxation to balance income and outgo. Some of the administration's 22 new tax proposals are understood as likely to be in the program. If so, these measures will be passed quickly.

LANGHORNE, Apr. 5.—A varied program followed the business meeting of Langhorne Sorsosis in the library yesterday, with the presiding officer being Mrs. Lynn J. Harrington.

The civic committee, of which Mrs. Sarah Allen is chairman, had arranged the program for the afternoon. A representative of the Salvation Army spoke; as did also Mrs. John W. JURY AWARDS $23,018.30 IN $145,600.00 SUIT

Verdict Gives $20,000 to One
Girl Injured in Accident
At Langhorne

A COMPLICATED CASE

TRENTON, N. J., Apr. 5.—After deliberating eight and a half hours yesterday, jurors in Mercer Court reached a decision that awarded $23,018.30 to six plaintiffs in the complicated three-cornered civil suit in which $145,600 was sought.

Three separate suits, the outgrowth of injuries to three persons in an odd automobile accident, were tried jointly before Judge A. Dayton Oliphant and the jury.

The verdict awarded Anna Delaney, 18, of 100 Walnut avenue, $20,000 for injuries sustained. The defendants in this suit were Abe Silvers, of 263 Walnut avenue, and Frank C. Rubury, of Wharton, N. J. Thomas Delaney, the girl's father, individually obtained a verdict of $1,000. Together they had asked for $85,000.

The jury further decided that Miss Margaret McGinley, 19, of 738 East State street, should receive $1,000 from Silvers and Rubury. Edward A. McGinley, her father, was awarded $350. Their claims totaled $40,000.

Mrs. Jennie Silvers, wife of Abe Silvers, was awarded $500 in her suit against Rubury. The New Jersey Bottling Company, of which Silvers is the proprietor, is due to recover $168.30 from Rubury.

In order to ease a crowded court schedule, the three suits were tried as one. Five lawyers participated in the litigation.

The accident, out of which the three suits grew, occurred on January 28, 1934, on the Lincoln Highway near Langhorne, in Bucks County.

The two cars involved, driven by Silvers and Rubury respectively, were proceeding toward Trenton when the crash occurred.

Miss Delaney, who was a passenger in Snyder's car, was found under the overturned machine, testimony showed, with the top of the automobile resting on her head. She suffered a fracture of the sphenoid bone within the skull, resulting, it was claimed, in the loss of sight of her right eye, impaired hearing, and the lack of feeling C continued on Page Four

Bucks School Officials May Have To Await Pay Checks

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 5.—The monthly pay checks of the superintendent of Bucks county public schools, and the assistant superintendents, may not be received until July. And furthermore, these school officials admit its not one of those jokes so prevalent around the first of April.

The officials have been temporarily deprived of salary checks owing to a slip-up at Harrisburg.

It is expected that a deficiency appropriation will be put through the Legislature, according to the West Chester Local News, which first revealed the embarrassing situation.

The extent of the deficiency, it is announced, reached $4,986,000, as follows: Salaries of superintendents, $44,150; assistants, $46,850; transportation, $380,000; vocational education, $215,000; Edmonds act reimbursement, $215,000.

Doylestown and other schools suffer by 30 percent of the school's annual appropriation. The school, like all others, received only 70 percent of its appropriation.

"WHY ECONOMIZE ONLY IN THE CASE OF THE VETERANS?" SAYS MR. HEARST

New York American, March 24, 1935

IT is to be hoped that the President will NOT veto the Patman bill for the bonus payment to veterans.

In the first place, billions are being distributed freely, liberally, almost recklessly, in every direction.

Why should not some of this money GO TO THE VETERANS?

If the Government were embarking upon a policy of rigid economy, in an honest effort to balance the budget, there would be some reason in the argument that this large amount of money should not be paid to the veterans at this time.

But the Government has NO INTENTION OF EMBARKING ON AN ECONOMICAL POLICY.

The President is asking for an appropriation of five thousand million dollars without even an indication of what he is going to expend it for.

There has never been a time in the history of this extravagant Administration when it was more disposed to be extravagant than it is today.

Its plan is merely penurious towards the veterans.

Why be penurious to them?

CERTAINLY they have deserved well of the country; they have rendered the most signal service that citizens can possibly render to their nation.

And they are rendering the greatest service of citizenship today. They are the defenders of the American faith, the protectors of American liberties, the maintainers of peace and order, the opponents of the enemy from without and from within.

Why not include those splendid citizens in the bounty that is being so freely distributed?

If we do not want to spend more money than proposed by the Administration; if we do not want to incur greater indebtedness; if we do not want to impose heavier burdens upon the public than those already projected in the Presidential program, why not take two thousand million dollars from the President's five thousand million dollar proposed appropriation and give that to the veterans?

We would at least know where those two thousand million dollars were going.

We would know that they were going in a deserving direction, and we would know, too, that the three thousand million dollars remaining ought to be enough to elect the Democratic Party in 1936. That would still constitute the largest campaign fund ever known or ever dreamed of in the whole history of the world.

LET us remember also that the Government is not creating a new obligation in paying the veterans the promised bonus.

SOME TIME OR OTHER IT IS GOING TO PAY THE VETERANS THIS MONEY.

It has pledged itself to that program.

Why not pay the money now when it is most needed, and have that obligation eliminated?

Why wait until later when the Government might have no money with which to discharge the obligation if it keeps on at its present reckless rate of extravagance?

Why not give the veterans their money before the financial resources of the country have been sapped dry?

Why not discharge this obligation, actually incurred and

BONDS TOTALING $38,000 GO UP IN SMOKE HERE

Cremation Takes Place On Lawn in Rear of Farmers
National Bank

HAD BEEN MATURED

Thirty-eight thousand dollars in bonds, in addition to the interest coupons at 4½% for a period of 27 years, went up in smoke here yesterday.

These particular bonds which succumbed to the flames were not of that character which many individuals possess today. These particular bonds were issued 27 years ago, and paid for the purchase of the lot on which the Jefferson avenue public school building is erected, the cost of the building and the furnishings, which totaled $38,780.11. The amount of the bond issue however was confined to $38,000.

The cremation of the bonds took place on the lawn in the rear of the Farmers National Bank of Bucks County, the match being applied by two school directors, Stanford K. Runyan, and George Molden. Thomas Scott, cashier of the bank, was a witness.

The burning of the bonds was decided upon and the school board was requested to have representatives present, so that a proper notation can be made upon the minutes of the board, showing that the bonds have been matured, cancelled, and destroyed.

The bonds were issued in 1908, and at that time were scheduled to run for a period of 30 years. They were in $500 denominations. Each year a specified amount has been set aside by the school board for the maturing of the principal and the paying of interest, and this sum had accumulated to such an extent that the amount was reached three years ahead of the scheduled date. There were 76 bonds all of which were carefully checked by Directors Runyan and Molden.

TO ASK PARDON FOR HIS PART IN MURDER

Giccomo Guiccardo, Convicted of Hiring Men to Kill John
Tilotta, Wants Freedom

GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Application for pardons for two criminals sentenced to the Eastern State Penitentiary from Bucks county, including one "lifer," will be heard by Board of Pardons in the Supreme Court room at Harrisburg, on Thursday morning, April 18, at 9 o'clock.

One of those seeking a pardon is Giacomo Guiccardo, 35, of Brooklyn, who is serving a life sentence in the "pen" for the part he took in the murder of John Tilotta here in December, 1928. He was found guilty of murder in the first degree and was sentenced by Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Stroudsburg, who tried the case in the Bucks county court.

Guiccardo is alleged to have hired New York "killers" to come to Bristol to "beat up" Tilotta, husband of Mrs. Maria Tilotta, so that Guiccardo (Joe) Guida, Bristol mill worker, and Mrs. Tilotta could "run away together." At the trial it was brought out that Guiccardo hired the "killers" because his fourth cousin, Guida, gave him orders to do it and for which he was paid $500 by Guida.

Guida was electrocuted at the Western Penitentiary at Bellefonte for the Tilotta murder on February 3, 1930. He "rode the thunderbolt" smiling and unafraid into oblivion at 7:06 in the morning.

Guiccardo was sentenced on December 4, 1929, and since that time has been incarcerated in the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Maria Tilotta, the third person tried for the triangle murder, was also convicted of first degree murder and sentenced by Judge Shull on February 24, 1930, to life imprisonment.

Bernard F. Mount, of Philadelphia, who was sentenced by the late Judge William C. Ryan in the Bucks county courts on April 12, 1929, to pay a fine of $1,000 and costs and serve seven and one-half to fifteen years in the Eastern State Penitentiary on a charge of rape, and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs and serve three years in the "pen" on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill Miss Louise Livingston, then 21, of Langhorne Manor, will also apply for a pardon on April 18 at Harrisburg.

Wilkes-Barre, Apr. 5.—Dynamiting outrages were resumed at the strike torn area today as no immediate adjustment of the walk-out called at the Glen Alden operations by the insurgent United Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania loomed, despite mediatory activities by the Court and State and public officials. The case against seven insurgent members charged with dynamiting outrages in Warrior Run was given to a jury in criminal court this morning. Headquarters of the new union disputed claims that the Glen Alden Company had 80 per cent of the working force back on duty.

DENOUNCE PROGRAM OF DEMOCRATS AT REPUBLICAN RALLY

Vigorously Score Tax Program of Governor Earle and
"Spending Orgy"

IT "SOCKS THE POOR"

"God Help Our Children and Those to Come," Says
Miss O'Hara

(By Staff Correspondent)

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 5.—Vigorous denouncement of the whole Democratic tax program of Governor George H. Earle, and the "spending orgy" in which the federal government is engaged, was made at a meeting of nearly 500 Republican men and women in the Moose Home, last evening. The meeting was sponsored by the Bucks County Council of Republican Women, and was presided over by Mrs. John W. Cooper, Pineville. All districts of the county were represented, and the hall was jammed and overflowing with attentive listeners. The session was one of a number of rallies planned between now and the next election, and was illustrative of the renewed interest in Republican activities.

Three speakers were scheduled, namely: Miss S. M. R. O'Hara, Wilkes-Barre, vice-chairman of the state Republican committee, and former assistant attorney general; Senator Clarence J. Buckman; and assemblyman William E. Zimmerman, of Lansdale. Singing was led by Frank J. Gerlitzki, of this borough, well-known war-time song leader.

The tax program of Governor Earle which "soaks the poor instead of the rich" was the target of Assemblyman Zimmerman, who is serving his second term in the Assembly as a representative from Montgomery County. He inspired the Republicans gathered to continue their efforts in a more vigorous degree. "Last Fall up and down the Commonwealth we heard the cry 'Tax the rich. Down with special interests. We're for the poor and the working-man.' Somehow that war cry seeped into my soul, and when I returned to Harrisburg I made a special study of the Democratic legislation, and promises, and found the poor are still the object of taxation, and that special interest has been left high and dry as far as tax is concerned."

Mr. Zimmerman paid high tribute to Bucks County's representatives at Harrisburg. He complimented the county residents on sending a man like Wilson Yeakel to the state capitol, adding "He was a great aid to me." High tribute was also paid to Senator Buckman and Assemblyman Stockman.

One reason he is a Republican is because "of the type of tax plan advanced by the governor" . . . "The Senate of Pennsylvania has a wonderful chance to show the nation its value as a body by turning down the whole tax program advanced by Governor Earle, a program that would take pennies from children." The proposed gas tax which was defeated was scored by the speaker who fought vigorously against it in the state body, who also told that "The tax program of the Democrats has caused lack of harmony among their own membership in the House, because the Democrats have balked at the Governor's program, and are unwilling to affix their signatures to the Governor's 'bad check,' and the Republicans in the Senate will not sign that 'bad check' because the tax program is the exact opposite of the tax program they (the Democrats) suggested last Fall. Before long the Democrats will admit their tax program is all wrong."

Senator Buckman announced to the assemblage that the bill which he introduced in the State Senate for an appropriation for the rebuilding of the Tohickon Aqueduct at Point Pleasant, and which passed the Republican Senate, is now in committee in the Democratic House of Representatives. "If the people of Bucks County want that aqueduct rebuilt and it would certainly be a very fine improvement, they will have to see the Democratic Governor, and their Democratic friends, and have the bill brought out of committee."

The real issue of the campaign according to Senator Buckman "is the people's choice between Republican Conservatism and extravagant Democratic government which has brought the state to a financial crisis." . . . "I've never seen or heard of such stupendous foolishness that is going on at Harrisburg now." He then read the Governor's 22-point tax program, and described it as "the most vicious program ever written." The senator bitterly flayed the Democratic administration's policy in Harrisburg in administering of relief by "strangers." "The system is altogether wrong. Some people who are on relief rolls are receiving $24 or $25 a week, more than they ever received per week in their life before." The Senator added that $21,000,000 is needed this month in Pennsylvania alone. "The whole relief program should be investigated."

MAY BE FINAL TEST

Appearances now indicate that before long the Roosevelt administration will have at its disposal the four billions it has sought for a public works program. Furthermore, it looks as though the success of Roosevelt policies to bring the country out of the depression and to give industry the impetus it seems to need to keep its wheels moving will be finally determined by the results to be obtained from this effort.

Because that is so, the Roosevelt administration may well look with anxiety to what is involved in giving effect to a mammoth public works program. It would seem that four billion dollars spent in providing work should do much to speed up the industrial wheels. It will if the element of waste can be reasonably eliminated. It will if those in charge can so spread the expenditures as to cover the whole field of that part of industry which is notably lagging and because of whose lagging business generally is retarded. Success of the public works program will be a test of the wisdom of Roosevelt recovery policies. It will also have a great influence on the political happenings of 1936. If in the next year the country definitely feels the impetus of expenditure of the vast sum soon to be available to the administration, Mr. Roosevelt's political future will be assured.

Confidence in Mr. Roosevelt's courage and intent is still strong; confidence in the soundness of many of his experimental policies is somewhat shaken. Consequently, what may follow inauguration of the public works program is of high importance to the industrial interests of the country and to the political future of Mr. Roosevelt and his party.

WELL DRESSED

Perhaps the man in the audience has misjudged the "best-dressed man on the screen." He may have felt that the actors for whom publicity agents made such claims were more or less foppish or duds, but in the light of seven rules of good dressing laid down by one of them that opinion will be revised.

Neatness and proper care are more important than newness. Run-over heels are taboo. So are dirty and misshapen hats. Suspenders are essential to properly draped trousers. Dirty fingernails are forgiven only on men engaged in manual labor. Only in his bedroom may a man appear unshaven.

And what price good dressing? This movie star says he can prove that a man making $40 a week can dress as well as a millionaire, maintaining that good taste and good dress are not necessarily the accompaniment of riches.

Clothes make the man, but do not accurately proclaim his credit rating. Many a millionaire has gone shabby and many a pauper is immaculate. Good dressing is a matter more of time and attention than money, and yet men upon whose hands time weighs heavy are most guilty of neglect of their personal appearance. Unemployment and poverty breed carelessness.

Cities just seem more wicked than villages because the village editor dares to expose only those he can lick.

A Brain Trustee trying to live up to the title can be pretty irritating.

"THE COLD FINGER CURSE"

by EDWIN DIAL TORGERSON

SYNOPSIS

"The crowd had gathered as usual at June and Jimmy Dikman's place at Two-Sixty-Eight Waverly Place, habitat of artists and their ilk. Among them are St. Gregory Valcours, pseudo artist, Roger Duane, a specialty dancer, dignified Douglas W. Coultny, the only non-artistic person in the house, and Glenn Thubert, a newspaper reporter. They are awaiting the arrival of wealthy Mrs. Charles Elderbank, who has just purchased the house next door. Valcours says Mr. Elderbank, who is sixty-two and twenty years his wife's senior, lives in Canada and approves of her going around with a chap named Merriam. Jimmy notices a stranger watching the house and Valcours says, "If it's a process server looking for me, I'm not here." Later Detective Stranning arrives, looking for Valcours, but Jimmy shields the latter. Stranning claims there is no charge against the artist, but says he is wanted for questioning. Violet Elderbank and her handsome escort, Price Merriam, arrive.

CHAPTER III

Violet Elderbank was a woman of breezy charm. She did not affect the subdued elegance of wealthy and superior persons who wish it known that their station in society is assured. She was not a climber; she was a hunder. She knew all the Park Avenue people whom she wanted to know, and she was confident that if she required further recognition in that quarter she could go out with an axe or a gun, so to speak, and get it. There was something of the Texas Panhandle about her, though she had been born in Brooklyn.

As an old man's synthetic darling she had done very nicely for the first eight years in New York, Montreal, Palm Beach or Deauville, but it was inevitable that Mr. Elderbank would tire of the pace. He did not have a wife one who could grow old along with him gracefully, but one who seemed to acquire increasing pep as he acquired increasing wealth, girth and years. Her vitality demanded continuous trotting, with now and then a gallop. She had read somewhere that the adrenal gland requires change of scenery for its robust functioning, and this bit of popular science she had embraced with enthusiasm. She changed her environment constantly and progressively, and when her panting Charles found himself on the threshold of the sixties he decided that a man was a fool to try to keep up with a giddy young wife like that, and if she wanted to gad she would have to gad alone.

Violet loved New York and Mr. Elderbank detested it. She revelled in the superficial glories of Deauville and Cannes and Mr. Elderbank loathed everything in Europe. He was willing to endure Palm Beach with her when the weather grew too hot for him in Canada, but save for January, February and March he was to be found at his offices in Montreal, watching the snail-halls of his wealth gain retort bulk and impetus as they rolled. He was a multimillionaire. He had read somewhere that a man who retires from business in his sixties must expect to go into swift decline, and that such old fogies died, on an average, within two years of their retirement. Accordingly he had decided never to retire.

Violet blithely came and went as she chose, taxing her busy husband with few social responsibilities and assuring him that she was uniformly happy over the arrangement. As a matter of fact she was almost too good to be true, and herself at all times utterly devoted to do as she wished. Mr. Elderbank wanted her to have a good time and gave without stint for her income. He was worried about her at times, but mainly on account of her jewels.

Gems were her principal weakness. She was laden with them conspicuously at all times. She said they gave her a consciousness of power, a confidence under all circumstances, a means of self-expression which most women are content to derive from empty and expensive clothes. Violet had the clothes and she had also the jewels.

They were insured for eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and that was not a newspaper estimate but the opinion of a hard-boiled appraiser. She wore, whenever there was the slightest justification for it, a necklace of two hundred and fifty-five matched pearls, which trinket alone was valued at three hundred thousand dollars. A smaller necklace of one hundred and sixty pearls was worth two hundred thousand dollars, a diamond marquise ring of fifteen carats was appraised at fifty thousand dollars, a square diamond and sapphire ring of eighteen carats cost thirty thou-markedly handsome, clever and useful. This was Price Merriam, formerly of the stage, the movies and the talkies. He had found a career more profitable than any these fields could offer.

Price had soon won her confidence. He had been to Europe with her twice, and to many resorts of fashion in America. She introduced him as her secretary and anybody who didn't like it could lump it. He relieved her mind of all material cares, and made routine matings a function for her with astonishing smoothness. He thought up places to go and things to see. He guided her safely among the favorite pitfalls of the theatrical, night sand dollars. She owned two hundred thousand dollars' worth of diamond and ruby bracelets, and innumerable gewgaws commensurately costly.

She was not, while parading this fortune in stones, without protection. Clifford Spencer, the chauffeur who attended her in New York, had been chosen for his integrity and courage—though not to her knowledge—by an emissary of Inspector Laval of the Montreal Detective Bureau, whose assistance Mr. Elderbank had privately sought. Likewise her constant companion, dancing partner and night life secretary, Mr. Price Merriam, was a privately paid escort and guardian—another thing she did not know. He had been selected, however, not upon the advice of the Montreal inspector, but that of the Montreal branch of an international detective agency. Mr. Elderbank had not desired even the police to know that he considered it necessary to pay somebody to take care of his wife in this manner. But he knew his wife's weakness for night clubs and Bohemian life generally in the restless city on the Hudson, and he wanted to feel that she was constantly protected.

Consequently while Violet was attending private lessons at Arturo Moretti's salon de danse in New York, a special partner was assigned to her who was not only the club and Bohemian sub-strata in New York. She was as safe as anyone could be, who wore so many jewels.

She reciprocated by paying him a salary that was not to be sneezed at, by approving an unlimited expense account and presenting him with an automobile which she said he was to use for "official business," which was the pursuit of pleasure.

The renovated establishment on Waverly Place was Price's idea. She had occupied for some seasons a suite in one of the noble hostilities at the southeast corner of Central Park, but she complained that this was too much like being cooped up as a transient. The thought of an independent ménage in Greenwich Village appealed to her, though the Village admittedly was not what it once had been.

The distinctive Colonial dwelling which grew out of Price's plans and her check book pleased her greatly. She had just moved in and was preparing to enjoy it to the utmost.

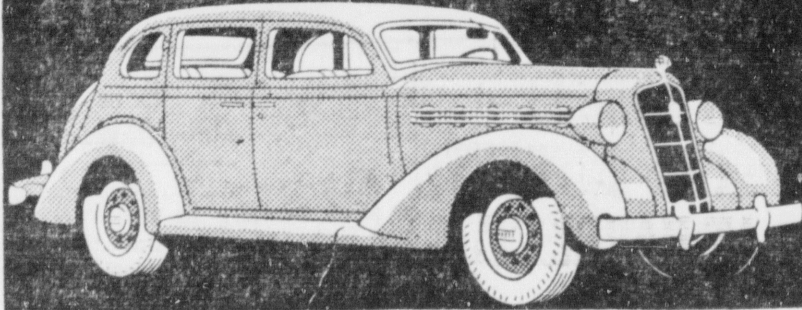

To-night she was going to a typical studio party where there were genuine artists.

Her arrival did not, as might have been anticipated, stop the show. It went on just as though she and Merriam and the gems had stayed next door at Two-Sixty-Six.

What Is *NU-ENAMEL

NU-ENAMEL is compounded under a private formula prepared after years of extensive research. Its base is an Oriental oil, a product extracted from the fruit or nuts of a tree growing in China. For centuries the ancient Chinese have used this oil with amazing results for protecting exposed surfaces. The sacred idols of the temples and other precious wood-carvings are shielded from decay, as well as boats and bridges. World famous research chemists have long attempted to use this Oriental oil as a base for enamel and paint. NU-ENAMEL succeeded, and, as a result, NU-ENAMEL possesses many distinctive features not found in ordinary enamel: (1) Can be applied over old paint. (2) One coat is all that is required. (3) Leaves no brush marks. (4) No unpleasant odors. (5) Dries quickly. (6) Makes hard, glassy finish. (7) Easily cleaned. (8) Colors remain sharp.

FIVE TEAMS TO ENTER LOWER BUCKS CIRCUIT

Five teams officially decided to enter the Lower Bucks County League last night at a meeting of the circuit held in the William Penn Fire House, Hulmeville. The names of the teams are: Edgely Braves, Newportville A. A., Hulmeville A. A., Bristol Hi-Bernians, and Bristol A. A. In the event that a sixth team doesn't enter the circuit it will be run with five.

The meeting was crowded with players anxious to get their signatures on a contract but this was held over until the next meeting. It was also decided to hold the next meeting in private. At this time the clubs will post their forfeit fee with the treasurer of the league.

It was definitely decided to adopt the by-laws of the last season and also play on Tuesday and Thursday nights. The names of the following were submitted for umpiring: John Elmer, Bristol; Harry Johnson, Hulmeville; Matt Hutchinson, Bristol; Edward Welsh, Edgely; Charles Wright, Bristol; Howard David, Bristol; and Joseph Kervick, Bristol. If any of the above are unable to fill the post of umpiring it will be appreciated if he will get in touch with an official of the league.

The Bristol A. A. team and Bristol Hi-Bernians will play their home games on Leedom's field. The Edgely Braves will use the same diamond as last season, that on Edgely avenue, opposite Haines Road. Newportville A. A. has its field on Emille Road, between Bath and Newportville Road opposite the towel factory.

Hulmeville A. A. will change to a new playing field. Their new diamond is on Reetz avenue in the rear of the Vornhold Paper Mill. There are five acres of ground to the field and permission has been given to the team by Mr. Reetz to use the playing ground. Mr. Reetz is putting the field in tip-top shape and has graded and rolled the ground into a first-class playing field.

There will be bleachers to accommodate at least five hundred fans. To protect these he has built a screen stand along the foul lines of first and third base. He has also built two dug-outs for the teams with seats enough to accommodate fourteen players at one time. The dug-outs are also protected from foul balls by a screen. The field is almost entirely closed in and by moving away from their old locality the Hulmeville team will be able to play Sunday ball in the Delaware River League, a circuit just being organized. Mr. Reetz will have the refreshment concession to the diamond which is expected to be ready by April 28.

The managers and directors present were: Bristol A. A., John Mulholland and Michael DeRisi; Bristol Hi-Bernians, Neal McDevitt and James Dolan; Hulmeville, Howard Black and Leon Comly; Newportville, Robert Lewis and E. Middleton; Edgely Braves, Fred Hibbs and Jack Wolvin. Last night's meeting was called by Secretary James A. Dolan with Thomas Juno acting as president.

revealed, is being directed primarily at the relief item in Governor Earle's recommendations with a view of slicing this figure considerably. Together with this probably will come a decision to pass legislation already before the Senate to abolish the present administrative set up and return the distribution task back to local communities.

Senator George Woodward, Philadelphia, has a bill before the upper chamber creating local boards of six members to handle relief and old age and blind pensions, expending money distributed to them by a state relief supervisor. The local boards would be independently operated.

Another bill which has been on the Senate calendar is that of Senator Alonzo Batchelor, Beaver, which vests in the Department of Welfare the task of distributing relief and pension funds to local poor boards for expenditure. It is being held up pending legislative action on the Public Charities Association bill consolidating the miscellaneous poor boards in the state into a more efficient unit.

ELKS BOWLERS ARE WRAPPED IN PATAPAR

In the Bristol League the Parchment five trampled rough-shod over the strong Elks quintet and won a three-point victory. "Georgie" Gaddish crashed the maples for a total of 518 to lead the papermakers. Sam "Doctor" Pearson led the Elks with a 515 total.

In the American League due to the stiff opposition of the Gasoline Alley five the Elks were defeated three points. Joe Barton as usual rolled a 484 total for the Gas Boys. Charlie Veit was the Elks flash with a 499 total.

The Elks bowlers were defeated for the third time in the National League when the White Elephants scored a three point victory. "Ace" Delker rolled 547 for the Elephants. "Flowers" Schmidt was the losers' best, rolling an astonishing total of 511.

HIGH SCHOOL RELEASES TRACK EVENTS SCHEDULE

By Jack Orr

Bristol High's track schedule has been recently released by "Bill" Dougherty, head mentor, and Manager Mitchell Spector. The track and field men have been practicing faithfully for three weeks and are all set for the first meet at the Philadelphia Suburban Championships. The climax of the season is of course the Bucks County Interscholastic Meet to be held this year at Sellersville-Perkasie on May 18th.

The complete schedule follows:
April 26, Junior High and Varsity in Philadelphia Suburban Championships. 27, Penn Relays Varsity Relay team in Class B; May 1, Triangular meet Bensalem, Morrisville and Bristol at Bristol; 4, Princeton Interscholastics; 6, Dual Meet with Fallsington at Bristol; 18, Bucks County Interscholastic Meet at Sellersville-Perkasie; 23, Dual Meet with Burlington at Bristol; 25, P. I. A. A. Junior Meet at Norristown.

A new event has been added to the list of field events this year. This is the javelin throw and many of the boys are trying out in this specialty. One day a week the squad interested in this event will travel to Sullivan's field where the dangers will be "decreased" to throw the spear.

Another new specialty is the pole vault. This year a few of the boys are testing their skill in clearing the high bar. If enough improvement is shown some of the pole vaulters may travel to the Princeton Interscholastics, which is the only meet which offers this event in competition.

With Spring football completed the next practice of the eleven is listed for the opening day of school next September. This preliminary feature was a huge success and many of the new pupils learned the fundamentals of the gridiron game.

It seems that the controversy over the baseball situation has found its way to the home of the mascot of the nine, "George" the bunny. Horace Longstreth, who holds the title of Custodian of the Rabbit, reports that George is in critical condition and further states that if baseball is restored the hare will probably pull through and once more accompany the Cardinal and Gray in their tour around the circuit.

And if the boys who are working on the problem have anything to do with it Bristol High will certainly have a baseball team this spring. The Lower Bucks County League is holding a spot in the circuit open for the Cardinal and Gray if they can raise the necessary funds.

The ground on which the Jefferson avenue school is located was purchased from John Pruell, of Philadelphia, for $4,200. The school building was erected by the late John N. The bonds were placed in an incinerator, thoroughly soaked with kerosene, and the matches applied by Mr. Molden and Mr. Runyan.

Denounce Program of Democrats at Rally

In speaking of plans to revise the Pennsylvania Constitution, Senator Buckman stated he believed it needs revision, "but let us be careful who writes it."

Miss O'Hara dwelt at length on national legislation, giving a resume of what is going on in Washington. One of her remarks was that "The budget of the present Democratic administration call for 21 billion dollars, which is more than the cost of all previous administrations, and which cost is more than all the wars ever fought by the United States" . . . "Of course it is 'okay' for a few of us who have gray hairs not to worry, for we've been told plans have been made for us. But God help our children and those to come." The president of the United States was permitted to write his own pre-scription but the result has been a grand mess, according to the woman speaker.

patriotically due, and THEN very properly and wisely enter on an era of sensible economy?

Why not THEN return to the pledges of the Democratic platform?

DO you remember those pledges, citizens? They declared for:

"The immediate and drastic reduction of Governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus, and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of Federal Government."

They urged: "MAINTENANCE OF THE NATIONAL CREDIT BY A FEDERAL BUDGET, ANNUALLY BALANCED."

Do you remember Mr. Roosevelt's personal promises when he was running for office?

He declared at that time: "The platform is a promise BINDING ON THE PARTY AND ITS CANDIDATES."

"I have accepted the platform WITHOUT EQUIVOCATION AND WITHOUT RESERVE."

He dramatically exclaimed:

"Let us have the courage TO STOP BORROWING to meet continuing deficits. STOP THE DEFICITS."

YOU citizens elected Mr. Roosevelt on the pledges of the Democratic platform and on his personal promises.

Why should those pledges not be kept?

Why should we not return to a program of sound and honest democracy — why not pay our debts, discharge our patriotic obligations, balance our budget, and then and thereafter conduct the country on a BUSINESS BASIS?

However, we assuredly cannot continue our drunken sailor policy of reckless expenditure, in every direction, and at the same time ignore our obligations to the veterans ON THE GROUNDS OF ECONOMY.
